CITIZENS WIN AT LAKE VILLA

Was Hardest Fought Election the Village has Ever Known

The Antioch village election held on Tuesday was a very tame affair, there being but one ticket in the field, and as is usually the case where there is no opposition very little interest was manifested. Only forty-four votes were cast and every candidate received the full number of votes.

But in our sister village, Lake Villa, excitement ran high. From the very beginning there has been a "scrap on" for the village offices, each side putting forth all their energy and fighting bravely.

At the village caucus the Citizens' ticket won out, the opposing faction immediately placing an Independent ticket in the field.

No alarm was felt by the nominees and their friends however until it was learned that some small legal requirements had been neglected, which would invalidate the election and that their opponents were raising objections to the Citizens' ticket. The matter was brought before a trial board and the outcome of the hearing was that the Citizens ticket was declared illegal and thrown out, the judges declaring that the Independent ticket was the only one legally launched.

Thus leaving only one ticket in the field. The supporters of the Citizens' ticket immediately "got busy" and Attorney E. J. Heydecker was consulted. They called a meeting for Saturday evening at which the matter was taken up and discussed at length, Mr. Heydecker being present as their attorney.

Another meeting was called for Monday evening and each and every man present was given instructions as to the manner in which the Citizens ticket might yet win out.

When Tuesday arrived everything in the village was excitement, this being the hottest contested election that has taken place in years. The excitement even reached out to the surrounding towns especially to those where there was no opposition and where the politicians had ample time to be interested in matters away from home. The outcome of this contest was eagerly looked forward to and it was generally conceded that it would be a close run whichever side came out victorious.

Eighty-seven was the number of votes cast for president, which seemed to be the office for which the strongest fight was put up. Out of this number Chas. Harbaugh received 34 votes and Wm. Bradley received 51, thus receiving a plurality of 17, which elected him to that position. The trustees on the Independent ticket were Frank Hamlin who received 33 votes and Jas. Atwell who received 32.

The elected trustees were B. Dicks who received 54 votes and Chas. Jarvis and Fred Hamlin who each received 50.

To defeat the Independent ticket in the face of the fact that it had been declared the only one legally in the field, required genuine hustling on the part of its opponents, and was accomplished in this way, by all those who had stood as supporters of the Citizens' ticket at the caucus writing in the names of their chosen candidates when they came to the polls on Tuesday. When the result of the election was announced the Antioch band was immediately sent for to go down and help along the celebration.

STARS ON COINS AND FLAG.

Little Heraldry Lore Shown in the Five and Six Points.

The stars on the great seal and the seal of the president of the United States are five-pointed, while on the seal of the house of representatives they are six-pointed. The 13 stars on the obverse of the present half and quarter dollar are five-pointed. The reverse of the present half and quarter dollar is a copy of the great seal, except that the clouds are omitted. It is evident that heraldry has not taken a very strong hold in these matters in the United States, therefore it is not in the power of anyone to say without a doubt why the difference in the stars on the flag and the coins. So far as is known, with the exception of the reverse of the present half and quarter dollar, the stars on American coins are copied from the colonial coins, which were, no doubt, made after the manner of English heraldry, while the flag was made up after the design of Washington's coat-of-arms, containing three five-pointed stars.

Zionites to Begin Work in Slums.

It is reported that the members of the Catholic Apostolic church of Zion have decided to emulate the work of the Salvation Army and are to begin their slum work in the "red light" district of Chicago. It is stated that they will commence their work on Saturday evening of this week, when a band of Zionites accompanied by a number of deacons will meet at the Polk street station, sing hymns and then proceed to Twenty-second street where they will sing, shout warning to those who have forsaken Christ and distribute tracts among the people. Saloons in the district north of Twenty-second street will also be visited. If this their first meeting proves to be a success they will probably be continued every Saturday evening throughout the coming summer.

Money in Bogus Pennies.

Strangely enough, the most profitable coins to counterfeit are pennies, because for an expenditure of 18 cents 100 of them can be made, which leaves a profit of 82 cents on the dollar. The chief difficulty is in getting them into circulation. It also takes expert workmanship to make these pennies, because they must be made with a die. The best counterfeiters pay most of their attention to the making of quarters, half dollars and dollars. With silver at 60 cents an ounce a counterfeit can make five quarters from every ounce, quarters that ring true and have every appearance of the real thing.—New York World.

His Step Ladder.

One evening Roy and his mamma were sitting in the twilight talking. He had a faint idea of a second marriage, but he desired to know more about it, and commenced to ask his mamma questions, among which was, "Mamma, if you should die, would papa's second wife be my step ladder?"

Laughter the Best Tonic.

Laughter is a good, healthy, muscle-making, lung-developing exercise, and it is as good for girls as boys. And humor can be cultivated in a girl's mind without any abatement of the dignity and modesty and charm of her womanhood. Not the unpleasant and constant frivolity evidenced in "smart" speech or quickness of repartee, but the humor that looks at the world with a twinkle in the eye and sees its absurdities, its smallness and its fun, says a writer. It should be part of every woman's mental equipment, for women are called upon to bear so many of life's small worries as well as its greater ones. The bringing up of children, the care of servants, and the many social duties that become a burden, are all made easy and possible to put up with by the woman with an unflinching sense of humor and of the bright side of life.

The Change in Surgeons.

"The surgeon of the past was a huge, coarse, red-faced brute, a very terror," said a surgeon of the present. "And no wonder. What type of man but the brute type could cut off legs or saw through the skull while the patient, perfectly conscious, howled and wailed? In the past surgery was barred to gentle and refined men. Whatever their interest in anatomy, in medicine, they shunned surgery. They could not endure to operate upon a conscious subject. The advent of anesthetics caused the advent of new men into surgery. Men of delicacy, of sympathy, of imagination—a higher type—took the profession up. That is why surgery is continually advancing now, whereas in the past it stood dead still."

Could Use Him Later.

When "Gipsy" Smith spoke at a banquet the other evening he told a story which, he said, he had brought from England. An old Yorkshire farmer drove into Leeds on a market day behind a rather stolid-looking animal. Pulling up at the door of a business house, he threw the reins over the mare's back and alighted from the cart. A young man in search of a job happened by. "Shall I hold her for you?" he asked. "No," replied the farmer. "She don't need any holding. She'll stand all right." The young man was walking away when the farmer shouted to him. "Hey, there," he said, "you can come back in half an hour and help to start her."

Wine Without Grapes.

The Bavarian winemaker who fabricated 55,000 gallons of wine in one year by means of chemicals, without a drop of grape juice, is one of many similarly engaged who deserve the punishment of imprisonment and fine which he alone gets. Within seven years 300 tons of glycerin have been used by this dealer. It seems, making wine, besides citric and tartaric acids. No wonder that, with such a beverage, the bibulous Bavarian gets extremely "tight," almost to the point of explosion.

WEDDING A SURPRISE

Mrs. Carrie Hook and Mr. Chester Whitmore married in Chicago

On Monday morning the many friends of Mrs. Carrie Hook were much surprised to learn of her approaching marriage to Mr. Chester Whitmore of Ottumwa, Iowa, which took place in Chicago on Monday afternoon. Their secret had been well guarded and was not made known to their friends until they had reached Chicago. The bride is a well known and popular lady of our town having lived here all her life and is also well known about the county, having successfully conducted music classes throughout the surrounding country for a number of years. She is a member of the Eastern Star and held the office of Worthy Matron for some time retiring from that position last January. She was also a charter member of the Royal Neighbors and every since their organization has acted as pianist and for some time as recorder, and the members of these organizations are sorry indeed to learn that her home is to be in a distant city.

The groom although a stranger here is a prominent lawyer at Ottumwa, Iowa and stands high in his chosen profession. Mr. and Mrs. Whitmore will make their future home at Ottumwa and although the many friends of the bride regret very much that she is to leave our midst the best wishes follow her to her new home and the News joins with their friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Whitmore a long and happy life.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitmore are expected back here the latter part of this week, but will probably remain here only a short time before going on to Iowa.

TO BUILD LIGHTING PLANT

Farmers in Bristol and Salem to Have Streets and Homes Lighted

The towns of Salem and Bristol are to have an innovation in the way of lights as A. S. Higley of Salem is now letting contracts for the construction of an electric lighting plant in the village of Salem which will be used to supply lights to the two villages and the farmers living along the roads between them. So far as can be learned this is the first time that farmers in Wisconsin have been given the opportunity of lighting their homes with electric light. The plant is to be erected at once and Mr. Higley has received assurance that he will have customers for two hundred lights. Both the villages of Bristol and Salem will have their streets lighted from the plant and the lights will be sold to all the halls and churches that can be reached by the circuit. This plant will cost in the neighborhood of twenty thousand dollars. For the past three or four months the proposition of lighting the streets of the two villages has been under consideration and Mr. Higley finally took up the matter and started a canvass of the towns. The cost of the plant was so great that he found it necessary to secure contracts for at least two hundred lights before letting the contract for the plant.

The circuits from the plant will be widely extended over the towns of Salem and Bristol and will possibly be extended to the different summer resorts in that region. For a long time the lighting question has been a serious one for the hotel keepers, but with the plant in Salem it will be an easy matter for all of them to provide for their guests. The work of constructing the plant and stringing the circuits will be started within a few weeks and it is expected that the plant will be ready for business by the first of September.

GAVELED THROUGH TO SECOND

Local Option Bill Advanced Another Reading by Senate Chairman

Berry introduced in the senate the Anti-Saloon League's bill providing for township and city local option, the question to be voted on at a general election, and asked that the measure be advanced to the second reading without reference to a committee. It had been proposed to introduce the bill with a special election feature but it was decided later to change it to a general election, the question as to whether it should be a special or general election matter was really the only point of difference with the friends of local option.

The bill was gavelled through to the order of second reading by president pro tem, Pemberton, despite a howl of objections from the Democratic side and from some Republicans. Demands for roll call were made in plenty of time, but the president pro tem ignored them. Jandus, who is the chairman of the legislative committee of the United Societies and the introducer of a local option bill desired by this organization, inquired of the president pro tem if he would have the right to file a written protest against the action in railroad the bill to second reading and Pemberton declared that he would have such a right. Later Jandus reconsidered his decision to file a written protest, concluding that nothing could be gained as the action on the bill had been taken.

This action by the president of the senate is part of the process of settling the local option question. Berry's bill was the result of an agreement between the disagreeing factions of the legislature as to what sort of a bill should be passed, an agreement reached principally through the efforts of Speaker Shurtleff. If possible the bill will be passed by the upper house and go to the assembly. Indications are that there will be but little trouble passing the bill, as members of the house, with hardly an exception, are more than willing to get rid of this troublesome question on almost any terms that will not bring too much wrath upon them.

GREAT NAMES IN DIRECTORY.

Many Namesakes of Famous Lights of Literature.

A study of the new London Directory, which this year scales 13 pounds, is extremely interesting. In the case of literature, we are accustomed to regard the names of great authors as ending with them; yet the greatest of English writers has several namesakes scattered over London. William Shakespeare, professor of singing, almost alone carries on the artistic tradition of the name; but there is something quite Elizabethan in the address, "Green Lanes," appertaining to Henry Shakespeare, a grocer. John Bunyan is another grocer, in what Londoners will describe as "the" Edgware road. William Blake is a beer retailer, a craft that is far removed from "songs of innocence." Chaucer is a name that seems to have absolutely dropped out. Milton, of course, is fairly common, although the only John Miltons are a ship chandler and a chiroprapist, neither of them poetic avocations. Keats occurs a few times, but there is no John Keats. Curiously enough, there is not a single Keble, but there is one Defoe. The name of Bronte is owned very appropriately by a woman, but she makes clothes instead of novels.

What Ailed Him.

The village philosopher looked unhappy. "What's the trouble?" asked the village cut-up. "Indigestion," said the philosopher. "I suppose it's the mince pie I indulged in last night." "Mince pie nothing! I know what's the matter with you and I'm not sorry it hurts, either. You're too full of old saws, you are, and it's no wonder they have turned on you at last."

HEIGHT OF THE CLOUDS.

Measurement Shows They Are from One to Six Miles Away.

When the illuminating tests of the new high-pressure fountain in the Schwarzenbergplatz, Vienna, were made a remarkable cone of light was observed, appearing as though projected by a searchlight, says the London Post. When this beam of light fell on a cloud an exceedingly bright spot appeared in the heavens. Dr. Rhaden, assistant at the Vienna observatory, observing the angle which the bright spot made with the horizon, had the happy thought of using it to determine the height of the clouds. A simple geometrical calculation permits of this and from a number of observations cloud heights were deduced ranging from 1,550 to 10,070 meters, or from one to six miles approximately. A peculiar fact was that sometimes during weather that was apparently perfectly clear a bright spot would appear in the projection of the beam of light, showing the presence of a stratum of fine vapor, ordinarily visible with difficulty or entirely invisible. On one occasion this vapor stratum proved to be more than six and a half miles high.

Go to England to Marry.

Every year from 800 to 1,200 couples go to England from the continent, mostly from Germany, to get married. To comply with the conditions of the English law the bride usually comes over first, stays one night in a hotel and gives notice of the marriage on the following day. Then the man arrives and the ceremony takes place. It is generally by license, as otherwise both would have to be in England for four weeks.

BOTH LEGS SEVERED; DIES

Richard Goodbody Killed in Northwestern Yards

Found lying on one of the switch tracks of the Northwestern in the yards just east of the depot, at Waukegan, with both legs severed just below the knees last Thursday night about 7:15, Richard Goodbody, of 725 Marion street, was hurried to the hospital in the Larson & Conrad ambulance, but died at 10 o'clock the next morning. The shock was too great for so old a man. It was about 7:15 when Mark Malloy, cousin of the dead man and a special policeman at the depot, heard some one shouting that a man was lying over on the tracks with both legs cut off. He immediately carried the news into the depot and the ambulance was called for.

It was soon on the spot and the injured man was lifted into it. He was found a few tracks east of the south-bound watering hydrant at the south end of the station. A record breaking trip was made to the hospital with the ambulance and Dr. Gavin was there at the same time. Goodbody was half unconscious from the shock.

He recovered consciousness but the shock was too great for him and he died about 10 o'clock. Mr. Goodbody was 59 years old. He was born in Shields township but had lived in Waukegan over fifty years.

POINT HAD BEEN PROVED.

No Need for Young Man to Carry Experiment Further.

A young man who had inherited a large fortune from a rich but very economical relative decided to live on a scale commensurate with his greatly increased income, and was making arrangements to build a fine mansion, buy an automobile and invest in other expensive luxuries, when an elderly friend who had always been one of his advisers undertook to remonstrate with him. "What's this I hear about your squandering the money your uncle left you, Harry?" said the elderly friend. "I am not going to squander it," he answered, "but I'm going to get some good out of it." "It's enough to make him turn over in his grave. Didn't your uncle prove in his own case that a man could live on a personal expenditure of less than $1,000 a year?" "Yes," "Well," he proved it so thoroughly that I accept it as demonstrated. What is the use of my continuing the experiment?"—Youth's Companion.

Had Use for Both.

Chicago policemen sometimes make themselves useful, although perhaps not in the way they are supposed to. This was shown by an incident in a South side home. The mistress of the house happened to go into the kitchen during the evening. There she saw the cook evidently enjoying the company of two big dispensers of the law. "Why, Maggie," she exclaimed, "isn't one policeman enough for you?" "Shure, ma'am, but wan is my chap-eron," answered the cook. "Which one?" queried the lady. "Sometimes the wan and sometimes the other," was the cheery reply from the resourceful Maggie.—Chicago Chronicle.

Don't Cry; Go Eat.

"I don't cry any more about anything," said the bachelor girl. "When I got so sad I don't know what to do I go out and get me something to eat. A little fellow I was very fond of once taught me that. He asked me to take luncheon with him to talk over a quarrel we were having. During the talking over it I got to crying. I cried all over my fish. He ordered me some more fish and scolded me while they were getting it ready. 'Never cry, Frances,' he said, 'as long as you've got a good luncheon or dinner before you. It isn't worth while.' No, I never saw him again, but whenever I want to cry I think of him and get me something good to eat instead."

Led to Humorous Error.

Capt. Amundsen, having lost several dogs in his expedition to the Arctic regions, told some of the Netchillie tribe that he would purchase one from them. The suggestion caused consternation and was promptly refused. An explanation was demanded. The man applied to returned next day with a chubby, laughing boy on his back. "Such we do not sell," he said. Amundsen was astonished. "You wished to purchase one," said the man, seeing Amundsen's perplexity. Finally it was discovered that the Greenlandic term for "dog" was equivalent to "child" in the Netchillie language.

Mixed His Quaker.

Former Representative Charles T. Cherry was telling some men at Springfield the other day of a baggage man in an Illinois town to which a number of influential Quakers were coming. The baggage man conceived the idea that if the visitors thought he, too, was a Quaker business might be helped thereby. Consequently, upon the arrival of the delegation at the station the leader was greeted by the baggage man, who solicitously asked: "Has thou the checks for thou baggage?" And yet he wondered why the Quakers smiled.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST."

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBB-MERRILL COMPANY)

CHAPTER XXI—Continued.

The appearance of the man who opened the door for Anita and me
suggested that our ring had roused
him from a bed where he had deposited himself without bothering to take off his clothes. At the sound of my voice, Ball peered out of his private smoking-room, at the far end of the hall. He started forward; then, seeing how I was accompanied, stopped
with mouth ajar. He had on a ragged
smoking-jacket, a pair of shapeless old Romeo slippers, his ordinary business waistcoat and trousers. He was wearing neither tie nor collar, and a short,
black pipe was between his fingers.
We had evidently caught the household stripped of "lugs," and sunk in the down-to-the-heel slovenliness which is called "comfort." Joe was crimson with confusion, and was using his free hand to stroke, alternately, his shiny bald head and his heavy brown mustache. He got himself together sufficiently, after a few seconds, to disappear into his den.
When he came out again, pipe and ragged jacket were gone, and he rushed for us in a gorgeous velvet jacket with dark red facings, and a showy pair of slippers.

"Glad to see you, Mr. Blacklock!"
In his own home he always addressed
every man as Mister, just as "Mrs.
B." always called him "Mister Ball,"
and he called her "Mrs. Ball" before
"company." "Come right into the front parlor. Billy, turn on the electric lights."

Anita had been standing with her head down. She now looked round with shame and terror in those expressive blue-gray eyes of hers; her delicate nostrils were quivering. I hastened to introduce Ball to her.
Her impulse to fly passed; her lifelong training in doing the conventional thing asserted itself. She lowered her head again, murmured an in-audible acknowledgment of Joe's greeting.

"Your wife is at home?" said I. If one was at home in the evening, the other was also, and both were always there, unless they were at some theater—except on Sunday night, when they dined at Sherry's, because many fashionable people did it. They had no friends and few acquaintances. In their humbler and happy days they had had many friends, but had lost them when they moved away from Brooklyn and went to live, like uneasy, out-of-place visitors, in their grand house, pretending to be what they longed to be, longing to be what they pretended to be, and as discontented as they deserved.

"Oh, yes, Mrs. B.'s at home," Joe answered. "I guess she and Alva were about to go to bed." Alva was their one child. She had been christened Malvina, after Joe's mother; but when the Balls "blossomed out,"
they renamed her Alva, which they somehow had got the impression was
"smarter."

At Joe's blundering confession that
the females of the family were in no
condition to receive, Anita said to me
in a low voice: "Let us go."

I pretended not to hear. "Rout 'em
out," said I to Joe. "Then, take my electric and bring the nearest parson.
There's going to be a wedding right here." And I looked round the long salon, with everything draped for the summer departure. Joe whisked the cover off one chair, his man took off
another. "I'll have the women-folk down in two minutes," he cried. Then to the man: "Get a move on you, Billy. Stir 'em up in the kitchen. Do the best you can about supper—and
put a lot of champagne on the ice.
That's the main thing at a wedding."

Anita had seated herself listlessly
in one of the uncovered chairs. The wrap slipped back from her shoulders and—how proud I was of her! Joe gazed, took advantage of her not looking up to slap me on the back and to
jerk his head in enthusiastic approval.
Then he, too, disappeared.

A few minutes of silence, and there was a rustling on the stairs. She started up, trembling, looked round,
as if seeking some way to escape or some place to hide. Joe was in the doorway holding aside one of the curtains. There entered in a beribboned and beflowered tea-gown, a pretty, if rather ordinary, woman of forty, with a petulant baby face. She was trying to look reserved and severe. She hardly glanced at me before fastening
sharp, suspicious eyes on Anita.

"Mrs. Ball," said I, "this is Miss Ellersly."

"Miss Ellersly!" she exclaimed, her face changing. And she advanced, and took both Anita's hands. "Mr. Ball is so stupid," she went on, with that amusingly affected accent which is the "Sunday clothes" of speech.

"I didn't catch the name, my dear,"
Joe stammered.

"Be off," said I, aside, to him. "Get
the nearest preacher and hustle him
here with his tools!"

In the hall, "Go in, Alva. It's O. K.," heard the door slam, knew we should soon have some sort of minister with us.

"Alva" entered the drawing-room. I had not seen her in six years. I remembered her unpleasantly as a great, bony, florid child, unable to stand still or to sit still, or to keep her tongue still, full of aimless questions and giggles and silly remarks
that she and her mother thought fun.
I saw her now, grown into a handsome young woman, with enough
beauty points for an honorable mention, if not for a prize—straight and strong and rounded, with a brow and a keen look out of the eyes which it seemed a pity should be wasted on a woman.

"From what Mr. Ball said,"—Mrs.
Ball was gushing affectively to Anita—
"I got an idea that—well, really, I didn't know what to think."

Anita looked as if she were about to suffocate. Alva came to the rescue.
"Not a very complimentary to Mr.
Blacklock, mother," said she good-humoredly. Then to Anita, with a simple friendliness there was no resisting: "Wouldn't you like to come up to my room for a few minutes?"

"Oh, thank you!" responded Anita,
after a quick, but thorough inspection
of Alva's face, to make sure she was

THE WEDDING.

like her voice. I had not counted on this; I had been assuming that Anita would not be out of my sight until we were married. It was on the tip of my tongue to interfere when she looked at me—for permission to go!
"Don't keep her too long," said I
to Alva, and they were gone.

"How far off is the nearest church?"
I cut in.

"Only two blocks—that is, the Methodist church," she replied. "But I know Mr. Ball will bring an Episcopalian."

"Why, I thought you were a devoted Presbyterian," said I, recalling how in their Brooklyn days she used to insist on Joe's going twice every Sunday to sleep through long sermons.

She looked uncomfortable. "I was reared Presbyterian," she explained
confusedly, "but you know how it is in New York. And when we came to live here, we got out of the habit of church-going. And all Alva's little friends were Episcopals. So I drifted toward that church. I find the service so satisfying—so elegant.
And—oh, sees there the people one sees socially."

"How is your culture class?" I inquired, deliberately malicious, in my impatience and nervousness. "And do you still take conversation lessons?"
She was furiously annoyed. "Oh
those old jokes of Joe's," she said,
affecting disdainful amusement.

In fact, they were anything but jokes. On Mondays and Thursdays
she used to attend a class for women
who, like herself, wished to be "up-to-date" on culture and all that sort of thing. They hired a teacher to cram them with odds and ends about

art and politics and the "latest literature, heavy and light." On Tuesdays and Fridays she had an "indignant gentlewoman," whatever that may be, come to her to teach her
how to converse and otherwise conduct herself according to the "standards of polite society." Joe used to give imitations of those conversation lessons that raised roars of laughter round the poker table, the louder because so many of the other men had wives with the same ambitions and the same methods of attending them.

Mrs. Ball came back to the subject of Anita.

"I am glad you are going to settle with such a charming girl. She comes of such a charming family. I have never happened to meet any of them. We are in the West Side set,
you know, while they move in the East Side set, and New York is so large that one almost never meets any one outside one's own set." This smooth snobbishness, said in the affected "society" tone, was as out of place in her as rouge and hair-dye
in a wholesome, honest old grandmother.

I began to pace the floor. "Can
it be," I fretted aloud, "that Joe's racing round looking for an Episcopalian preacher, when there was a Methodist at hand?"

"I'm sure he wouldn't bring anything but a Church of England
priest," Mrs. Ball assured me loftily.
"Why, Miss Ellersly wouldn't think
she was married, if she hadn't a priest of her own church."

My temper got the bit in its teeth.
I stopped before her, and fixed her
with an eye that must have had some fire in it. "I'm not marrying
a fool, Mrs. Ball," said I. "You mustn't judge her by her bringing-up—by her family. Children have a way of bringing themselves up, in spite of damn fool parents."

She weakened so promptly that I was ashamed of myself. My only apology for getting out of patience
with her is that I had seen her sel-

ashings in the coat over her
bosom; and on her head was a hat
to match. I looked at her feet—the slippers had been replaced by boots.
"And they're just right for her," said
Alva, who was following my glance,
"though I'm not so tall as she."

But what amazed me most, and delighted me, was that she seemed to be almost in good spirits. It was evident she had formed with Joe's daughter one of those sudden friendships so great and so vivid that they rarely lived long after the passing of the heat of the emergency that bred them. Mrs. Ball saw it also, and was straightway giddied into a sort of ecstasy. You can imagine the visions she conjured. I've no doubt she talked house on the east side of the park to Joe that very night, before she let him sleep. However, Anita's face was serious enough when we took our places before the minister,
with his little, black-bound book open.
And as he read in a voice that was generally impressive those words
that no voice could make unimpresive, I saw her paleness blanch into pallor, saw the dusk creep round
her eyes until they were like stars
waning somberly before the gray face of dawn. When they closed and her head began to sway, I steadied her with my arm. And so we stood, I with my arm round her, she leaning lightly against my shoulder. Her answers were mere movements of the lips.

At the end, when I kissed her cheek,
she said: "Is it over?"

"Yes," McCabe answered—she was looking at him. "And I wish you all happiness, Mrs. Blacklock."

At that name, her new name, she stared at him with great wondering eyes; then her form relaxed. I carried her to a chair. Joe came with a glass of champagne; she drank
some of it, and it brought life back to her face, and some color. With a naturalness that deceived even me
for the moment, she smiled up at Joe as she handed him the glass. "Is it bad luck," she asked, "for me to be the first to drink my own health?"
And she stood, looking tranquilly at every one—except me.

I took McCabe into the hall and paid him off.

When we came back, I said: "Now
we must be going."

"Oh, but surely you'll stay for supper!" cried Joe's wife.

"No," replied I, in a tone that made it impossible to insist. "We appreciate your kindness, but we've imposed on it enough." And I shook hands with her and with Alva and the minister, and, linking Joe's arm in mine, made for the door. I gave the necessary directions to my chauffeur
while we were waiting for Anita to come down the steps. Joe's daughter was close beside her, and they kissed each other good-by, Alva on the verge of tears, Anita not suggesting any emotion of any sort. "Tomorrow—sure," Anita said to her.
And she answered: "Yes, indeed—as soon as you telephone me." And so we were off a shower of rice rattling on the roof of the brougham—
the stately man-servant had thrown
it from the midst of the group of servants.

Neither of us spoke. I watched
her face without seeming to do so,
and by the light of occasional street
lamps saw her studying me furtively.
At last she said: "I wish to go to my uncle's now."

"We are going home," said I.

"But the house will be shut up,"
said she, "and every one will be in bed. It's nearly midnight. Besides,
they might not—" She came to a full stop.

"We are going home," I repeated.

"To the Willoughby."

She gave me a look that was meant to scorch—and it did. But I meant at the surface no sign of how I was winning and shrinking.

She drew farther into her corner,
and out of its darkness came, in a low voice: "How I hate you!" Like the whisper of a bullet.

I kept silent until I had control of myself. Then, as if talking of a matter that had been finally and ami-
ably settled, I began: "The apartment isn't exactly ready for us, but Joe's just about now telephoning my man that we are coming, and telephoning your people to send your maid down there."

"I wish to go to my uncle's," she repeated.

"My wife will go with me," said I quietly and gently. "I am considerate
of her, not of her unwise impulses."

A long pause, then from her, in icy calmness: "I am in your power just now. But I warn you that, if you do not take me to my uncle's
you will wish you had never seen me."

"I've wished that many times already," said I sadly. "I've wished it from the bottom of my heart this whole evening, when step by step
fate has been forcing me on to do things that are even more hateful to me than to you. For they not only make me hate myself, but make you hate me, too." I laid my hand on her arm and held it there, though she tried to draw away. "Anita," I said, "I would do anything for you—live for you, die for you. But there's that something inside me—you've felt it; and when it says 'must,' I can't disobey—you know I can't. And,
though you might break my heart,
you could not break that will. It's
as much my master as it is yours."

"We shall see—to-morrow," she said.

A $40,000 TREASURY ROBBERY.

Clever Work of Detective Revealed the Thief.

The robbery of the sub-treasury in Chicago recalls the fact that the treasury department in Washington
was the victim of a $40,000 theft about 30 years ago. At first, although no reasonable explanation of how the thing could have been done by an outsider could be given, it was assumed that it was the work of some one unconnected with the office in which the robbery occurred. It was not long,
however, before a clever detective
became acquainted with the fact that one of the clerks who might have had access to the bundle of bills was acquainted with a professional gambler
of shady antecedents. That discovery solved the problem. A little patient watching resulted in catching the gambler with the stolen notes, and the rest was easy. The clerk was arrested, and, while in confinement, was given to understand that he was betrayed, whereupon he confessed the robbery, which was accomplished by shoving the package of notes, all of large denominations, into a position
where they could be "snaked up"
with a cane provided with a hook.

Clever Trick of Tramp.

A queer comedy of cheating is now
causing much amusement in Paris.
A laborer named Bedadne, living at Ymonville, in the Euro et Lorr, went to Melun with two pounds in his pocket. Having spent this in liquor,
he conceived the idea of getting on to Paris for nothing.

Finding an empty third-class compartment, he fastened a flannel belt
round his neck, stuffed a handkerchief
into his mouth, pitched his empty
purse onto the opposite seat and, lying down, first had a sleep and then,
when Paris was reached, refused to give any sign of life till the alarmed station staff poured a cordial into his mouth.

Then he was taken to a hospital,
where he told a story of being attacked by three men, but police questions becoming too difficult, he at last related his stratagem, and was haled from his sick bed to prison.—

Old Wall Street Character Dead.

Van Schaick & Co., one of the oldest stock brokerage houses in New York, have just lost their oldest and most famous customer. Almost up to the time of his death a few days ago,
he would drop in occasionally to ask
Mr. Gorham, Derby Crandall or Col.
Handy how the market was going. He kept in touch with the market notwithstanding his great age—95. Russell Sage was one of his chums, and he used to make all manner of fun of the miser, who was nearly six years
his junior, patting him on the back
and calling him "kid," "little boy,"
etc.

Town Belle Criticized.

A town belle got off the train at a small town between Atchison and Topeka last night, says Ed Howe. She shook hands with her left hand, wore
a larger hat than the girls who met
her, wore pretty leud clothes, chewed gum and when she hit the cinder platform of her home town a lot of people
grinned at her and said: "Hello,
there!" This town belle was not bad
looking, but she couldn't keep her mouth closed even when she was not talking.—Kansas City Journal.

ILL FROM OVERWORK

NERVOUS PROSTRATION CURED BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

By Toning up the Blood and Nerves—Patient Recovered Weight, Strength and Good Spirits.

When the nervous system is broken down from overwork, or whatever cause, life loses its joys. Not only is the nervous victim a sufferer himself but he is usually a trial to the whole family.
Nervous breakdown is often gradual,
appearing at first to be merely an unusual fretfulness. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills tone up the nerves in the most direct way and not only cure minor
troubles but serious disorders as well.

Mr. W. W. Munroe, of 16 Hazel Park, Everett, Mass., says: "About four years ago this September I became all rundown from overwork and from confined to work during warm weather.
For two months I grew steadily worse.
I lost in weight and strength and had no appetite. My memory failed me quite rapidly and I became in a very low state, both physically and mentally. I took no interest in life, neither in business nor recreation. In my position, as foreman in a large manufacturing chemist's establishment in Boston, a good memory is absolutely essential to success because of the immense amount
of detail that must be carried in the head.
"I grew very despondent, could not bear to have people meet me and my friends remarked on my condition.
About the middle of December a friend
told me one day that he had tried Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills and found them reliable. I commenced taking them and at the end of two weeks the change for the better was remarked by friends. I continued using the pills until I was thoroughly recovered. I regard them as a fine remedy and make this statement
voluntarily in gratitude for the benefit
I received from them."

These pills actually make new blood
and have cured such diseases as rheumatism, nervous and general debility,
indigestion, nervous headache, neuritis
and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia. As a tonic for the blood and nerves they are unequalled.

If you are a sufferer from any disorder of the blood and nerves write for proof of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have accomplished in cases similar to yours. Every testimonial used by this company is carefully investigated
before being published and is authentic.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or direct by mail, postpaid,
on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

SPREAD THE LIGHT

WORK OF A NOBLE MISSIONARY AMONG CANNIBALS.

For Forty-Nine Years, in Almost Constant Peril of His Life, Dr. Paton Labored in the New Hebrides.

The death of Rev. John Gibson Paton, the missionary apostle to the New Hebrides, in his eighty-third year, was reported by cable from Canterbury, Australia. In 1858 Dr. Paton decided to go to the New Hebrides because he felt that "in a religious sense it was the darkest place in the world." For 49 years he worked among the natives of the islands, and few men have had a career so full of thrilling adventures, hairbreadth escapes and dreadful tragedy as his.

Tanna, the island on which he first landed, was inhabited by cannibals of most ferocious description. At first he had the companionship of his young wife and their little son, but a few months after their arrival both died of fever, and he was left to fight for his life and his religion alone.

Forty times the natives tried to kill him, and 40 times they failed. Six other missionaries who went to assist him in the work were murdered. The islands were visited by British warships and other vessels, and many times Dr. Paton was urged to leave Tanna and seek refuge on some other island where Christianity was beginning to make headway, or in New Zealand.

But he always refused. To him the howling cannibals who at times were literally thirsting for his blood, were "his dear beauteous Tannese," and with a heroism remarkable even in the missionary field, he remained at his post.

His escapes from death were almost miraculous. More than once he and his few helpers were besieged in the mission house by the entire population of the island, and death seemed certain.

On one occasion his dog saved him, sometimes his empty revolver frightened his assailants, and the fear the natives had of his "Jehovah God" whom he invoked more than once, proved his salvation.

A friendly chief once presented Dr. Paton with a finely polished wooden spoon. Natives he subsequently met would not believe that Dr. Paton had dared to visit this warrior. He showed them the spoon, and they fled for their lives. Then the missionary learned that his spoon was only used at cannibal feasts, and by the chief himself.

Gradually, however, the fruits of his unceasing work began to make themselves apparent, and a few years ago the number of Christians in the

New Hebrides was estimated at 18,000 out of a total population of 60,000. Not the least part of his work was the translation of the Bible into 20 different dialects for the use of the many different tribes on the islands.

Ten years after the death of his first wife he married again, and not many years ago his son was shot at by a hostile tribe and narrowly escaped death.

His visits to England were few and far between. His last was in 1901, and during his brief stay of two months the stalwart figure of the white haired snowy bearded old man with the charming smile was seen on many platforms.

Resourceful.
Detective Gumshoe (old school)—But this man could not possibly have committed the crime!
Detective Bludgeon (new school)—What of that?

"Well—er—"
"Of course he could not possibly have committed the crime. Do you imagine I'm looking for something easy? No, sir. I propose to show the world what my method will do. I will extort a confession from the fellow, and I shall convict him, and send him to the gallows in spite of his innocence. The best lawyers money can produce and a unanimous public sentiment will be my allies, and I am a detective, not a more opportunist, who waits for the favorable breeze to carry him to success."

The old-style detective, realizing his hopeless inferiority, was speechless with shame and chagrin.—Puck.

Americana Profane.
Dr. Madison C. Peters in his sermon in the Majestic theater declared that profanity was New York's most popular sin. "In fact," he said, "the Americans are the profane people in the world."

"A distinguished missionary from India, upon his return to America, heard a man using profane language, and accosting him, said: 'This boy was born and brought up in a heathen land, but in all his life he never heard a man blaspheme until now.'"

"This is a utilitarian age. We ask, does swearing pay?"

"Men tell me that they don't mean anything by their profanity. When people are awake and do things without meaning to do them they give visible signs of insanity."—New York American.

Collision Not Inevitable.
"If two cars go in opposite directions at great speed on the same track what is the result?"
"Collision."

"Not necessarily. You know they might be going away from each other."

STAIR-CLIMBING AN ART.

Grace and Muscle Result From Doing It Properly.

All the beauties of olden days were painted upon the stairs. They fully understood the artistic value of a graceful pose upon a handsome staircase.

If a woman knows how to go up stairs gracefully she borrows height and dignity and shows off a handsome gown advantageously.

Stair pictures have been very much the vogue in the East the last season. Many society women have posed in this fashion and made lovely pictures. Pose and gown are the essentials.

Many women go up stairs awkwardly and ungracefully. They think chiefly of the climb, and not of how they look.

The figure should not be rigid, but the shoulders should be held erect. One should keep the shoulders well back in descending and the head well up.

From the standpoint of physical culture there is nothing quite the equal of stair climbing. It strengthens the heart; makes the liver active and limbers up the muscles. It is the most graceful of all exercises.

Most women take pains to do as little of it as possible.

The physical culture rule is to climb with the knees without making use of the muscles of the back. But this is very difficult. The knees grow very tired. There is a distinct art in throwing one's self forward until one goes up naturally and easily. But one must not double up nor bend the shoulders.

Most women puff when going up stairs. But this is a sign of a weak pair of lungs. Others groan and grunt, but this means tender muscles and a weak heart. The woman who arrives at the head of the stairs dizzy and panting is in bad need of a course in physical culture. And the woman who cannot climb at all is in a sad condition physically. She should begin at the very lowest rounds of the gymnasium ladder.

It is worth any woman's while to learn to go up stairs easily and gracefully.

Sikh Burial Rites Observed.

A strange religious ceremony was observed last week just outside the city of Nelson in British Columbia, when the body of Sunder Singh, ex-sergeant in a Burmese regiment, was burned on a funeral pyre according to the rites of the Sikh religion, which somewhat resembles Brahminism. Every Sikh corpse must be disposed of by fire and water. Sunder Singh was one of a party of 20 Sikhs, most of them also ex-soldiers of the Indian empire, who were employed in construction work by the Canadian Pacific railroad. He was killed on the track. His body was carefully prepared for the pyre and the other Sikhs went through their religious ceremonies while it was being consumed. Later some of the bones were gathered up to be sent to Amritsar, India, to the widow and father of the dead man. The remaining bones were then taken down to the riverside and flung into the water with more religious rites.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

How Flowers Were Named.

It is interesting to know how certain flowers got their names. Many were named after individuals. For instance, fuchsias were so called because they were discovered by Leonard Fuchs, a German physician. Dahlias were named for Andrew Dahl, who brought them from Peru. The camellia was so called for a missionary named Kamel, who brought some magnificent specimens of the flower to France from Japan. He called it the rose of Japan, but his friends changed it to camellia. Magnolias were named in honor of Prof. Magnol De Montpeller, who first brought the beautiful trees to France from America and Asia. Because they tremble with the wind is the meaning of anemones. The Latin word to wash is lavare and lavender received its name because the Romans put the flowers into the water when they washed to perfume their hands.

Insect Processions.

Among the curious sights sometimes witnessed by entomologists are the "processions" formed by the larvae of a moth inhabiting pine trees in some parts of France. They march in single file, and the leader spins a thread which is added to by its followers. A procession consisting of 114 of these larvae was seen last April in the woods near Arachon. The processions are formed both at night, when the creatures make excursions from their nest to feed on the young leaves, and in the daytime, when they descend to the ground to seek a place in the sand where they may burrow and pass to the pupa stage. A kind of fly was observed attacking the procession above mentioned, to lay its eggs in the marching larvae.

Spotting a Headache.

"You've got a pretty bad headache, sir, haven't you?" asked the barber, giving a dry shampoo.

"That's just what's bothering me," replied the man in the chair. "But how did you know?"

"Tell it by my wrists and hands," explained the barber. "You and I are what they'd call magnetic mediums. And the electricity in my fingers takes the pain out of your head. But I get it. That's why I know. My hands are aching now. I don't often strike a customer like you, however, or I'd have to go out of business. I'll bet my arms ache for a half hour after you're gone."

GLUED THEM DOWN

HOW A SKIPPER SAVED HIS SHIP FROM SAVAGES.

South Sea Island Natives Were Decidedly Up Against It When They Mixed Things with Capt. McCabe.

"It was when I was trading around the South sea islands that I had a narrow escape from a band of savages that were going to take my ship," said Capt. McCabe, the veteran sailor who has now settled ashore to pass his days in leisure, to a Seattle Post-Intelligencer man. "It came near having a serious ending for me, but I came out ahead after all."

"I was sailing in a pretty little schooner, the Mattie W., and we had a general cargo for trading. Setting on deck were about 20 cases of a glue that was never known to let go, but we couldn't sell a bit of it."

"Well, we got down to Milicello, one of the group of the New Hebrides, and there we anchored in Manley bay. The snowy sand of the beach was shaded by waving palms and the sheltered waters of the bay were warm and as clear as crystal. We lay there for a week resting up and cleaning up the ship. We had been trading for almost a year then and there was nothing left but the glue and that was piled alongside the companion way."

"Well, one afternoon I let all the crew go ashore, and they were inland or away swimming in the clear water. I lay down to have a snooze. Suddenly I was awakened by a sharp jolt and all around me were South sea savages. They were armed with spears, bows and arrows and stone tomahawks. Their actions were hostile and I saw right away that I was up against it. I was alone on the vessel with all these armed heathens."

"Just then I happened to touch one of those glue boxes and in a flash an idea came to me. There was a large bunch standing near the main life rail and I grabbed five bottles and threw them at that crowd of savages one after the other. The bottles were thin glass and every one broke. Then, before the savages could recover their wits, I started throwing more. The glass would break and the glue ran all over them. When they tried to walk the glass would cut their feet and in a few minutes I had that whole crowd of savages glued to the deck unable to move. The glue hardened almost instantly on touching the air and this was what saved me."

"When I saw that they were all caught I signaled for the crew to return and then we weighed anchor and put off for Charlotte, in the Gilbert islands, where there were laborers wanted. I wasn't engaging in the slave trade, mind you, because these natives had come down a tree and had a bow in their hands. At Charlotte a planter gave me $1,000 to buy a boat and do it. That planter also told me that was one of the most successful voyages that ever I made."

Her Probable Reason.
"Day before yesterday, right out front of the hotel, here," said the lady, "a nice-looking grass-widow met a fellow that had been going with her some, and fired three shots at him, one of which tore off considerable of his south ear as he was rapidly going east. I was sitting on the porch at the time, and saw it all, and—"
"Great Scott!" ejaculated the washing-machine agent, pricking up his ears eagerly, "unless it is a matter that you don't care to discuss, I wish you would tell me what, in your opinion, was the lady's reason for such an act?"

"Well, I reckon," was the ingenious reply, "that she was mad at him. Of course, she mightn't have been—you can't tell much about women, you know—but that's the way it looked to me."—Tom P. Morgan in Smart Set.

Children and the Home.
"Children," said Judge McEwen at a dinner in Chicago, "are the great home builders. The lack of children means unhappiness; divorce. In the majority of the divorce suits that I pass on—and I pass on 100 a month—the couples are between 30 and 40 years of age, and childless. So children should be prized and cherished, despite their faults. Faults they have. I will admit. Only the other day I heard of a little girl, who, lunching out, was detected in the act of cramming a large yellow handful of Spanish omelet into the pocket of her pink frock."

"Why, you little pig," exclaimed her mother, "what on earth are you about? Put that back on your plate at once. Why, I never heard of such a thing. What on earth do you mean by it?"

Different.

"My wife simply pelted me with beautiful flowers when I came home from the club last night."

"How nice!"

"Not much. They were all in flower pots."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The GLOBE DEPARTMENT STORE

Trade at Waukegan's Biggest, Busiest and Only Daylight Store

THE GLOBE DEPARTMENT STORE has never attempted to appeal to the public as being the cheapest priced establishment in Waukegan, that is a laurel we willingly assign to competitors, but this claim we do make, and it stands as an unchallenged fact, that quality and style considered in both ready-to-wear garments and general merchandise lines we give you greater value for your dollar than you can possibly get elsewhere. Satisfaction or your money back is the unchangeable rule.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

In the matter of street railways, Chicago apparently has determined to let bad enough alone.

Nobody has heard of Nebraska developing opposing booms for the Democratic nomination.

If Harriman really did head a $5,000,000 conspiracy, the chances are the majority of the stock was water.

The raise in telegraph rates was not long enough in catching up with the raise in telegraphers' wages.

It is an unexpectedly long time since we have had an outbreak from either of Vesuvius or Tom Lawson.

Andrew Carnegie says that riches add little to human happiness. That may be true, but we are from Missouri.

The public may be thankful for one thing about the Thaw millions, Harry is not liable to invade vaudeville for a living when his trial is over.

Poor Paris. It did not get Jimmie Hyde as an ambassador, but had to take him merely as a multi-millionaire. America supplies Paris with many such.

According to Mr. Harriman's own lawyers, about the only three things he overlooked in cleaning out the Alton was the right of way and the office furniture.

Fred A. Busse as Mayor of Chicago will draw an annual salary of $18,000 for four years. The new charter extends the term from two to four years and increases the annual salary from $10,000 to $18,000. With a multitude of positions under his gift, Chicago's new Mayor has almost as much power as the governor of Illinois.

It might be a good scheme for railroad presidents hereafter to employ deaf and dumb stenographers and make them turn in their note books before leaving the office.

Daniel A. Campbell, a member of the Illinois state senate since 1894, and one of the best known men in public life in Illinois, has been appointed postmaster of Chicago as successor to Mayor Buse. The annual salary is $8,000 and it is a four year term.

There is scepticism expressed in some quarters over the reality of the story about a financial conspiracy for checkmating the President. Of course there is a possibility that the story may have been overdrawn or that the conspiracy was further developed in wish than in actual fulfillment. But those who are loudest in decrying the story are not those upon whose absolute good faith and loyalty the President places the most dependence just now. And there is little doubt among the real friends of the Administration that the President has taken the best, as he has certainly taken the most direct, method of meeting the move against him. One of the President's strongest weapons has always been publicity. It has not been the habit of presidents to take public into their confidence. But it has certainly proved in the case of Mr. Roosevelt that his readiest and surest defense against any attempt at "influence" has been to give the whole story away and let those who have tried to approach him take care of themselves as best they might. In the present case, however embryonic the combination against him might have been, the people have had due warning of its existence, and they will be the more careful in scanning every move made in Presidential campaign from this time on. If there are any interests that want to beat the president and his politics, they will have to come out and do it in the open.

What is it that tastes as pleasant as maple sugar and quickly relieves coughs and colds? Mothers who have used it will quickly answer, "Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup." The pleasant cold remedy that expels the cold through its laxative action on the bowels. Conforms strictly to the Pure Food and Drugs Law. Contains no opiates. Sold by J. J. Swan.

Rest is the great restorer. We tire our muscles by exercise and then rest to restore them; yet a great many of us do not stop to think how little rest we give our stomachs. As a usual thing no part of our bodies is so generally overworked as our digestive organs. A tired and overworked stomach will give signs of distress to which we pay no heed until at last dyspepsia takes hold. Indigestion is just a warning, and if we heed the warning we can easily avoid further consequences. Kodol is a most thorough stomach relief. It digests what you eat and gives the stomach the needed rest and greatly assists in restoring it to its normal activity and usefulness. Kodol is sold only on a guarantee relief plan. It is sold here by J. H. Swan.

Suspiciously Bad Cold.
"Why do you ask me where I was last night?" he queried. "Didn't I phone you specially that I was nearly dead with a cold and was going straight home and go to bed?" "Yes," she assented, "and I would have believed you, too, if you hadn't coughed so terribly over the 'phone.'"

Backache

gives woman some of her most miserable and wretched hours. Along with the backache, generally come headache, waist pain, falling feelings, irritability, nervousness and the blues. Have you these periodical troubles? If so, you may know that they are due to disease of some of the most important organs of your body, organs that should get help or, in time, through weakness, will wreck your health and life. Help them to health with

WINE OF CARDUI
WOMAN'S RELIEF
Says Mrs. Blanche E. Stephanou, of 1228 S. 42nd Ave., Chicago, "I suffered miserably for five (5) years with a constant pain in my back and right side and although my husband employed several of the best doctors in this great city, not one could give me relief. At last I took Wine of Cardui, which relieved my pain, prevented an operation and restored me to health." It is a wonderful curative medicine for all women's ills. Try it.

Last week parties were in town looking for a vacant store building with the view of starting a new enterprise here. Although not entirely satisfied with any of the buildings to be had they have not as yet abandoned the idea and will probably be here again in the near future.

Chance for Everybody.
An enterprising Londoner advertises that he is prepared to teach journalism, literature and public speaking "in five lessons."

For Catarrh, let me send you free, just to prove merit, a trial size box of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. It is a snow white, creamy, healing antiseptic balm that gives instant relief to catarrh of the nose and throat. Make the free test and see. Address Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Large jars 60 cents. Sold by all dealers.

Occultism.
It is noteworthy that supernaturalism prevailed just as strongly at the other side of the globe, among the aborigines of the new world. The coming of the Spaniards had been prophesied to the Mexicans by their oracles, and the prophecies were sung amid loud lamentations at their festivals.

When you need a pill, take a pill and be sure it's an Early Riser. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are safe, sure and satisfactory pills. The pills with a reputation. They do not gripe or sicken. They are sold here by J. H. Swan.

Easy.
"But do you think," said Manager Flasco, "that you can stand the onerous duties of the villain's role? You must remember that you have to be kicked from a third-story window, that in the fire scene the whiskers are burnt off your face, and in the final climax you are first beaten to a pulp and then thrown into a caldron of boiling oil." The applicant smiled. "All that will be child's play to me, sir," he replied. "I once paraded with the Orangemen on St. Patrick's day."

Doing Business Again
When my friends thought I was about to take leave of this world, on account of indigestion, nervousness and general debility, writes A. A. Chisholm, Treadwell, N. Y., and when it looked as if there was no hope left, I was persuaded to try Electric Bitters, and I rejoice to say that they are curing me. I am now doing business again as of old, and am still gaining daily. Best tonic medicine on earth. Guaranteed by J. H. Swan druggist. 50c.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourses and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs.

This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable by kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Painting Under Difficulties.
A. A. Boussoff is a Russian painter of Arctic scenes. To produce his sketches he was compelled to make toilsome and hazardous journeys, during which he could only use charcoal and pastel. It was not possible, save in the spring, to use oil colors, and even then it was hard to mix them, the paints being frozen. "Some of my sketches," he says, "I painted in the open air when it was bitterly cold. I had to put on fur gloves to hold the brush and work with rapid and energetic strokes. There were moments when my hands were frozen and refused service, my brush splitting with the cold. Yet I continued, having the ardent desire to fix on the canvas all those fantastic phenomena of the far north, so full of fascinating charm."

Shoplifting Temptations.
Out of ten or 12 cases I have had only one professional thief, and I am convinced that in the large majority of cases where women are guilty of shoplifting it is because a passing temptation is too strong for them to resist. In my opinion, our large ware houses, with their tempting display of all kinds of desirable articles, are a great danger to public morality—London Ideas.

Cat Fixes Right Time.
A woman received a telephone call one morning last week from a woman friend, asking her the time of day. The friend telephoned back it was 10 a. m., whereat the other explained that her clocks were all at 9:30, which she knew was wrong, as her pet cat had just washed its face, which it did every morning precisely at ten. Hereafter the woman proposes to regulate her clocks by the cat's ablutions.

SOUL STOMACH
No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol relieves indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol for dyspepsia does not only relieve indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy helps all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.
Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says: "I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."
Kodol Digests What You Eat.
Bottles only. Relieves indigestion, sour stomach, belching of gas, etc.

The stranger from the east was surprised. "Why," he exclaimed, as he stepped from the train in the South Dakota settlement, "the Indians around here look as calm and peaceful as school children on a picnic. I thought they considered themselves bad?" "Well, I'll tell you, pard," drawled Amber Pete, "they used to consider themselves bad, but since they have had a peek at some of the paleface folks in the divorce colony they have taken a back seat."

A Real Distinction.
A young matron of New York is the only one of her family who is not in "Who's Who," her father being a well known clergyman and her mother, brother and sister being more or less celebrated writers. One day her sister was condoling with her on her lack of distinction in this respect. "Never mind, Belle," said the literary sister; "you may not be in 'Who's Who,' but you're the only member of the family who is in the telephone book, and that costs real money."

Sour Stomach
No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol relieves indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol for dyspepsia does not only relieve indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy helps all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.
Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says: "I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

A SOCIAL LEADER OF KANSAS CITY

Attributes Her Excellent Health to Peruna.

MRS. W. H. SIMMONS.
Mrs. W. H. Simmons, 1110 E. 8th St., Kansas City, Mo., member of the National Annuity Association, writes:

"My health was excellent until about a year ago, when I had a complete collapse from overdoing socially, not getting the proper rest, and too many late suppers. My stomach was in a dreadful condition, and my nerves all unstrung."

"I was advised by a friend to try Peruna, and eventually I bought a bottle. I took it and then another, and kept using it for three months."

"At the end of that time my health was restored, my nerves no longer troubled me, and I felt myself once more and able to assume my social position. I certainly feel that Peruna is deserving of praise."

There are many reasons why society women break down, why their nervous systems fail, why they have systematic or pelvic catarrh. Indeed, they are especially liable to these ailments. No wonder they require the protection of Peruna. It is their shield and safeguard."

Maline Woman Has Pet Deer.

Mrs. Nellie Smith, of Sebec, Me., has a tame deer which is nearly two years old now, but which she has raised like a cosset lamb, feeding it from a bottle at first and making a great pet of it. It was given to her by a lumberman, who overtook it in the deep snow and caught it in his arms when it was no larger than a cat, except for its legs. It has always been perfectly tame and domesticated, never having known anything of the wild life of its kind, but runs about the premises unrestrained, having its place in the stable on cold nights. The deer are numerous around Sebec, and it is a question whether, as Mrs. Smith's pet grows older, it will not answer to the "call of the wild" and join its comrades in the forest.

Encourage Saving.

The wise father and mother will never discourage the fancies of their children for accumulating things. It is a natural instinct, inborn in the most of people, and given a little thought and care by the older heads may be turned to good account. If the child begins to collect "pretty" pebbles or shells at the seashore don't throw them out—but let them form the basis of a little geological collection, and with proper guidance the youngster will soon be looking upon "sticks and stones" with an interested and educated eye.

MEN OF PEACE MEET

GREAT PEACE CONFERENCE 13 OPENED IN NEW YORK CITY.

LETTER FROM PRESIDENT

Urges Endeavor Along Practical Lines
—Carnegie Praises the Kaiser—
Other Distinguished Men
Make Addresses.

New York.—Warned by President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Elihu Root, that if success is to crown the efforts of those who are working for peace among the nations of the world, their endeavor must be along practical lines, that they must not, by insisting upon the impossible, put off the day when the possible can be accomplished, the National Arbitration and Peace conference, which is meeting in this city under the presidency of Andrew Carnegie, began Monday its real activities with two crowded sessions in Carnegie hall.

Secretary Root also took occasion in his speech to point out the proposals which the United States government will have to make at the coming conference at The Hague. He warned his hearers not to expect too much at this second conference. The president, in a letter to the congress, expressed the hope that the coming conference might result in the adoption of an international arbitration treaty. Secretary Root, after seconding this hope, declared the United States thought it proper to urge again the discussion of the subject of the limitation of armament of the nations on land and sea, and the abolition of the practice of using force in the collection of debts owed by one nation to the citizens of another.

Mr. Carnegie in an address to the congress, paid a tribute to President Roosevelt and expressed the wish that Mr. Roosevelt might be the peace-maker of the future. He declared, however, that Emperor William is the man, among all men, who holds the peace of the nations in his power. In this connection Mr. Carnegie said it was unjust to speak of the emperor as a menace to the peace of Europe, adding that in 20 years upon the throne the German ruler had split no blood, nor caused an international war.

At the afternoon session the speakers were Secretary Root, Gov. Charles E. Hughes of New York, Mayor George B. McClellan of New York city, and Mr. Carnegie. It was at the afternoon session also that the letter from President Roosevelt was presented and read. Monday night the speakers included Baron d'Estournelles de Constant, member of the French senate and head of the International Conciliation committee, and Secretary Oscar S. Straus of the department of commerce and labor, who spoke upon "The Peace of Nations and Peace Within Nations."

TRAIN WRECKED, FIVE DEAD.

Fatal Accident to the Great Northern's Oriental Limited.

St. Paul, Minn.—Running at a speed of 40 miles an hour on a straight track, the Great Northern west-bound Oriental Limited, which left here for Pacific coast points Sunday morning, was derailed at 1:15 Monday morning at Bartlett, N. D. Five persons were killed and a score or more injured, some of them seriously.

After the wreck a gas tank exploded and the train took fire, seven passenger coaches being destroyed; the sleeper and observation cars escaping the flames.

There is said to be some evidence that the rails had been tampered with. Officials of the road say that the track in this vicinity had been in apparently first-class condition.

STEAMER PAHLOW IS WRECKED.

Sturgeon Bay, Wis.—The steamer Louis Pahlow ran on the rocks at Clay Banks, six miles south of here, during a blinding snow storm Monday afternoon, and is fast pounding to pieces. Her consort, the Delta, managed to anchor near the wrecked steamer and may be saved. The crews have been taken off by the life savers of this port and are safe.

THOUGHT HIM A LUNATIC.

Man's Queer Jumble of Words Warranted the Inference.

Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale recently told this story at New Haven's chamber of commerce banquet: A hard drinker was told by his doctor that he could be cured if every time he felt that he must have a drink he would immediately take something to eat instead.

The man followed the advice and was cured, but the habit of asking for food had become so fixed with him that once he was nearly locked up as a lunatic. He was stopping at a hotel and, hearing a great commotion in the room next to his, he peeped over the transom to see what the matter was. He saw, and rushed madly down to the office and shouted to the clerk: "The man in 153 has shot himself! Ham and egg sandwich, please!"—Lippincott's.

SPLENDID APRIL TONIC.

Easily Prepared at Home and Harmless to Use.

This is known as "Blood-Cleaning Time," especially among the older folks, who always take something during this month to clean the blood of impurities and build it up.

The following is the recipe as given by a well-known authority, and anyone can prepare it at home:

Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces.

Get these simple ingredients from any good pharmacy and mix by shaking well in a bottle. The dose is one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Everybody should take something to help the blood, which becomes impoverished and almost sour after the winter season, especially those who are subject to Rheumatism, Catarrh, Kidney and Bladder trouble.

It is said that one week's use of this mixture will clear the skin of sores, pimples or boils.

This is sound, healthy advice, which will be appreciated by many readers.

HAD NERVE, BUT NO MONEY.

Unlucky Man's Modest Request for Pecuniary Assistance.

Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, while in New Orleans a few months ago, took the opportunity of going to the races. During the afternoon he cashed several tickets, the result of good guesses. He was feeling happy after the last race, and started for the automobile which was to convey him back to his hotel. As he was about to climb into the machine he shot a hand on his arm, and a man shouted in his ear:

"Hello, Hitchcock, how are you? Hear you put a crimp in the bookies to-day?"

Hitchcock blushed and shook hands sheepishly, not recognizing the man, and not wishing to show it.

"Say, I want to speak to you confidentially," said the stranger.

"All right; what is it?" asked the comedian.

"Well, I am up against some hard luck to-day. They cleaned me and I want to get home. Now, don't let any one of these people see you, but slip me enough for car fare, will you?"

"Sure," said Hitchcock, placing his hand in his pocket. Then he paused and queried: "Where do you live?"

"Vancouver," was the answer.

Hitchcock took a flying leap for his machine, and unless the visitors at New Orleans are more glib, the impetuous one is still looking for car fare.—Harper's Weekly.

ROMANTIC DEVONSHIRE.

The Land Made Famous by Philpotts' Novels.

Philpotts has made us familiar with romantic Devonshire, in his fascinating novels, "The River," "Children of the Mist," etc. The characters are very human; the people there drink coffee with the same results as elsewhere. A writer at Rock House, Orchard Hill, Bideford, North Devon, states:

"For 30 years I drank coffee for breakfast and dinner but some 5 years ago I found that it was producing indigestion and heart-burn, and was making me restless at night. These symptoms were followed by brain fog and a sluggish mental condition."

"When I realized this, I made up my mind to quit drinking coffee and having read of Postum, I concluded to try it. I had it carefully made, according to directions, and found to my agreeable surprise, at the end of a week, that I no longer suffered from either indigestion, heart-burn, or brain fog, and that I could drink it at night and secure restful and refreshing sleep."

"Since that time we have entirely discontinued the use of the old kind of coffee, growing fonder and fonder of Postum as time goes on. My digestive organs certainly do their work much better now than before, a result due to Postum Food Coffee, I am satisfied."

"As a table beverage we find (for all the members of my family use it) that when properly made it is most refreshing and agreeable, of delicious flavor and aroma. Vigilance is, however, necessary to secure this, for unless the servants are watched they are likely to neglect the thorough boiling which it must have in order to extract the goodness from the cereal." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

How a Veteran Was Saved the Amputation of a Limb.

B. Frank Doremus, veteran, of Roosevelt avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., says: "I had been showing symptoms of kidney trouble from the time I was mustered out of the army, but in all my life I never suffered as in 1897. Headaches, dizziness and sleeplessness, first, and then dropsy. I was weak and helpless, having run down from 180 to 125 pounds. I was having terrible pain in the kidneys, and the secretions passed almost involuntarily. My left leg swelled until it was 34 inches around, and the doctor tapped it night and morning until I could no longer stand it, and then he advised amputation. I refused, and began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The swelling subsided gradually, the urine became natural, and all my pains and aches disappeared. I have been well now for nine years since using Doan's Kidney Pills."

POPULAR APPROVAL OF THEFT.

English Writer Sees Significance in Glorification of Robbers.

The idea of private property has never been fully accepted by the masses of the people, and never had their cordial approval as an institution, says a writer in the London News. The most popular songs and ballads of our nation in all ages, it may be noted, have been those which described sympathetically attacks on private property, from the Robin Hood cycle to the broadsheets in which Turpin and Sheppard were made heroes.

Even nowadays the literature that really touches the people, the literature that the educated classes seldom so much as see exposed for sale, the literature that is sold in the small "general" shop in the back street, and costs fewer pennies than the novel we know costs shillings, still very largely deals with the romantic exploits of the robber. He is never a villain; he is noble and generous to a fault; but he is convinced of the impropriety of persons having too much money.

BABY WASTED TO SKELETON.

In Torments with Terrible Sores on Face and Body—Tore at Flesh—Cured by Cuticura.

"My little son, when about a year and a half old began to have sores come out on his face. They began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in his arms at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh. He got to be a mere skeleton and was hardly able to walk. I sent to the drug store and got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He has never had any sores of any kind since, and only for the Cuticura Remedies my precious child would have died from these terrible sores. I used only one cake of Soap and about three boxes of Ointment. Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D. No. 1, Woodville, Conn., April 22, 1905."

The judges and clerks of election are greatly indebted to Mrs. H. Potter for her kind remembrance in the shape of one of the best lemon pies the aforesaid gentlemen have ever eaten and they extend to her a vote of thanks.

Attorney Heydecker of Waukegan, attended the Square Deal party's political meeting as their attorney Saturday evening.

Owing to the cold weather work on the new Lehigh residence has been somewhat delayed on account of not being able to lay the cement walk.

A large crowd assembled at the hall called together by the Allendale fire and drum corps and were instructed how to mark the ballots at the election Tuesday.

On investigation of the report concerning the decorating of J. K. Deering cottage at Fox Lake we find that Mr. Truman has the contract for the job and that Miller and Gonyo are in his employ.

Would it not be well for our village fathers to dig the road grader out of the mud and remove it from in front of the engine house door so in case of fire the engine might be used?

At the village election Tuesday the returns were as follows: For president, W. M. Bradley, 51; Chas. Harbaugh, 34. For trustees, Benjamin Dicks, 54; Chas. Jarvis, 50; Fred Hamlin, 50; Frank Hamlin, 33; James Atwell, 32. In the evening the Antioch band came down and serenaded the successful and defeated candidates and speech-making and jollification was the order of the evening.

The News—No Pure Drug Cough Cure Laws would be needed, if all cough cures were like Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure is—and has been for 20 years. The National Law now requires that if any poisons enter into a cough mixture, it must be printed on the label or package. For this reason mothers and others should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and see. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Simply refuse to accept any other. Sold by all dealers.

Once in a While. Once in a while some man moves out into some suburb without expecting to be able to raise all the vegetables the family will be able to eat.

GRAYSLAKE, ILL.

George Fredericks was an Elgin visitor last week.

Bitten By a Spider.

Through blood poison caused by a spider bite, John Washington, of Bosauville, Tex., would have lost his leg which had become a mass of running sores, had he not been persuaded to try Bucklen's Arnica Salve. He writes, the first application relieved, and four boxes healed all the sores. Heals every sore. 25 c. at J. H. Swan's, druggist.

Why She Dined with Him.

"No, you are right," assented the impecunious girl. "I had met him only half a dozen times when I went to dinner with him. I sometimes do that. Why? Oh, because it's so lonely to dine opposite strange faces. I had almost rather go hungry than sit all by myself at some little cafe table, or, say, opposite some strange and unbecomingly face. Then, besides," she added plaintively, "it is so expensive."

Juvenile Logic.

Voxed Parent—Polly, you provoke me beyond measure. You forget more things than anybody I ever saw. Polly—But think of this awful lot of things I learn, if I can do all that forgetting!

For Thin, Poor Blood

You can trust a medicine tested 60 years! Sixty years of experience, think of that! Experience with Ayer's Sarsaparilla; the original Sarsaparilla; the Sarsaparilla the doctors endorse for thin blood, weak nerves, general debility.

Not even this grand old medicine cannot do its best work if the liver is inactive and the bowels constipated. For the best possible results, you should take laxative doses of Ayer's Pills while taking the Sarsaparilla.

Made by J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Also manufacturers of HAIR VIGOR, AGUE CURE, CHERRY PECTORAL. We have no secrets! We publish the formulas of all our medicines.

His Frank Criticism.

My two little nephews, seven and 11 years old, often come to see me. The latter always bringing his violin to let me hear his efforts at playing, says a correspondent. I am not at all fond of amateur playing on the violin, and so was more than amused when Francis, the younger, called out one day when John was playing: "Hi, hum, diddle, the cat's in your fiddle and no mistake!"

The Modern Woman.

The modern woman's aim is to be business-like, and her affairs of the heart, such as they are, she conducts on the same principles as she would conduct a public meeting or a charity bazaar. She plays hockey and golf, fences and wrestles in order to develop her muscles, and learns judo principally because it is the fashion, but also because, as an ethereal debutante informed me the other day, "it's so jolly useful if you want to knock a man down."—Ladies' Field.

Onto Him.

"No," said Hi Tragedy, "I never take a sleeper when I travel. I don't think the berths are sanitary and besides in case of accident—"

"Yes," interrupted Lowe Comedy, "I suppose walking is safer."

Good for everything a salve is used for and especially recommended for piles. That's what we say about DeWitt's Carbolic Witch Hazel salve. That is what twenty years of usage has proven. Get the original. Sold by J. H. Swan.
